SERVICE BRIEF FOR SECURITY AWARENESS TRAINING

The "human factor" is one of the companies' least addressed yet greatest security risks. We empower your employees to identify and report suspicious activity in your environment and integrate best practices into their everyday work with minimal disruption.

Our training can be provided in person, in a recorded format, or both, and we tailor our content to cover all of the security topics that best suit your company's interests and needs.

Ensure that your team stands ready to prevent some of the most widespread cyberattacks today, such as phishing, ransomware, and fraud. Lodestone experts equip your company with easy-to-understand and effective training available on demand.

BENEFITS

- Support a strong culture of security within your organization.
- Reduce the chances of success of common social engineering attacks such as phishing.

METHODOLOGY

Lodestone Security Awareness Training Service is comprised of these primary phases:

- Preparation– We work with you to identify any particular security topics your company would like to cover. Our experts also make recommendations based on current threat actor trends and industry-specific concerns.

- Training – Lodestone team delivers a one-hour training session covering the topics discussed, empowering your personnel to detect, report, and prevent cyberattacks.
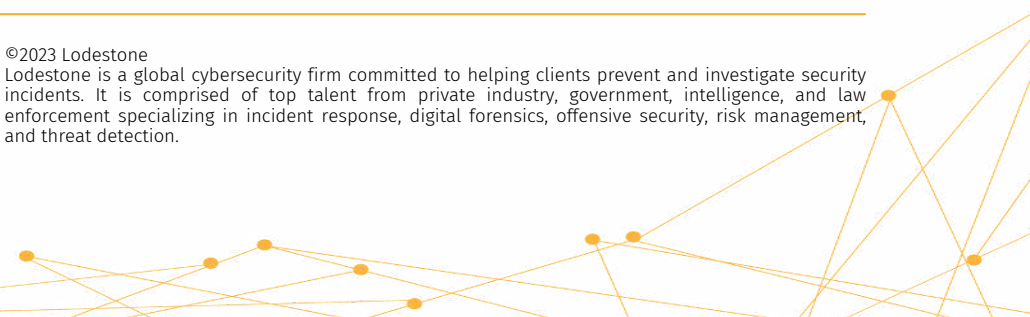

DURATION AND DELIVERABLES

The duration of the Security Awareness Training service varies greatly based on the type and amount of training purchased as part of the original engagement, as well as the size and type of audience.

This service includes the use of a presentation that is provided to you for future reference after the training is complete.
